Independent backrest recline

The backrest can move independently to the leg rest and reclines up to 45° from the upright position, allowing optimal support and comfort.

Angle adjustable arms

The arms of the chair can be angled inwards towards the client or outwards away from the client to accommodate windsweeping in patients.

Depth adjustable arms

The arm pads can also be moved forwards and backwards, so that once the seat depth is adjusted, the arms can be moved along with it to provide the appropriate support.

Seat width

The arms pads can be moved side to side, meaning the seat depth can be adjusted to suit the current user.

The leg rest can be elevated up to 60° from its original position, creating a wider range of positions to ensure comfort for the user.

Height and angle adjustable footplate

Both the height and angle of the footplate can be customised to the needs of the client.

Liquiform

Pressure Risk MEDIUM HIGH

Liquiform - a cushion with a fluid liquid gel in a soft silicone cover which provides a high level of pressure relief.

Celliform
